

Draper Equine Therapy Joins Combined Driver Chester Weber's Team of Sponsors

Ocala, FL –Draper Equine Therapy has joined forces with Combined Driver Chester Weber, becoming the latest sponsor to accompany Weber as he heads toward the 2010 World Equestrian Games. Weber, a force to be reckoned with in the field of Four-In-Hand Combined Driving, became the first American to win an individual medal at the World Championships and his high-profile team includes the now-famous Jamaica, the 2008 USEF Horse of the Year.

Draper Equine Therapy, makers of products for equines and their human counterparts that helps increase circulation and oxygenation within the body, is excited to be on board with Weber. "Chester has a competitive edge that is rarely seen, and he gave us the opportunity to find out if our product is cut out for the best athletes in the world," said Kat Wojtylak, Product Manager at Draper Therapies. "Thanks to Chester's extensive knowledge of the equine specie, he was able to compare our product against other competitive therapeutic products in the market and Chester found he loved Draper Therapy leg wraps and our fates were sealed to become part of Team Weber."

Weber uses Draper Equine Therapy's leg wraps on his star horse Jamaica, as well as the rest of his team. "We use their standing bandages in the evening and their special fabric helps to promote circulation and alleviates older sport horses like Jamaica from stocking up," Weber said. "Compared to other products, I believe Draper Equine Therapy is the best on the market."

Draper Equine Therapy has been in business since 2005 and Wojtylak said they are pleased about their partnership with Weber, as it will give them a chance to be part of the major leagues of the horse industry. "Our products help the body become more efficient and helps to combat soreness, stiffness and edema, while helping with muscle recovery and healing. Because our products have been clinically proven to regulate temperature and decrease pain, we can truly say we are a cut above the rest," Wojtylak said. "If you check the fine print on other products, you may find it to be rather revealing."

Wojtylak added that Draper Equine Therapy is looking forward to helping Team Weber enjoy a healthy, healing lifestyle for many years to come. That includes helping Weber with his current goal, qualifying for the 2010 World Equestrian Games. Weber started the year off right by winning the FEI Four-In-Hand at the prestigious Live Oak International and the FEI division for Four-In-Hand horses at the Sunshine State FEI Combined Driving Event.

The year also started nicely for all of Team Weber, when Weber was named an Equestrian of Honor by the United States Equestrian Federation and his star horse Jamaica was named the USEF Horse of the Year, the highest honor in the horse industry.

Weber is an influential representative for his sponsors, bringing attention of their products to combined driving enthusiasts, professional whips and trainers. Weber's outstanding record, both in the United States and in Europe, makes him uniquely qualified to represent Draper Equine Therapy throughout the industry and the world.

For more information on the Draper Equine Therapy, visit their display booth at the Rolex Kentucky Three Day Event, April 23-26, in the covered arena space number 21, or visit their website at www.draperequinetherapy.com.

Photo: Chester Weber and his star Four-In-Hand Combined Driving team, including Jamaica the USEF Horse of the Year, are now being sponsored by Draper Equine Therapy. Team Weber's horses benefit from the Draper Equine Therapy products. (Photo courtesy of Live Oak Combined Driving)